Speaker KEN BARNES Author of Redeeming Capitalism

Dr. Kenneth J. Barnes holds the Mockler-Phillips Chair in Workplace Theology and Business Ethics at Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary and serves as Director of the Mockler Center for Faith and Ethics in the Workplace. Having combined a long and fruitful career in international business with life as a pastor and scholar, Dr. Barnes previously taught both business and theology at Oxford University. His recent book, Redeeming Capitalism (Eerdmans, 2018) has been called a “tour de force” by Publisher’s Weekly and received critical acclaim from business leaders, economists and theologians around the world. Describing postmodern capitalism as “devoid of a moral compass and resistant, if not impervious, to ethical constraint”, Professor Barnes challenges the status quo and invites readers to imagine “an economic system with all of the wealth-generating possibilities of the capitalism we have, plus the social benefits of the capitalism we desire—a system that consciously embraces and enthusiastically employs common grace for the common good.”
